Renishaw Touch Probe

High Accuracy Touch Probe for Oil & Gas

The Hotchkiss Engineering Group have recently purchased an extremely accurate touch probe enabling them to measure complex 3D part geometries on all sizes of machining centres including 5-axis machines.

Following the increase in projects for the oil and gas industries The Hotchkiss Engineering Group decided to invest in this piece of equipment in order to provide a full dimensional report on component tolerances.

Tom Sisley, Company Director comments; "The probe is a welcome addition and will enable us to provide a better service, not only to the oil and gas industry but to any customer requiring accurate tolerances on their components."
